Although at some sacrifice of room, we insert the noble and striking remarks of the Vice resident, in casting his vote for ordering the bill a hard reading. He deserves the highest comment at the hands of the Democratic party .-He has proved himself entirely worthy of his evated position.

The legislation which encoutaged their investments, their educational train-ing or their habits, should cease, finally and firmly if required, but still soothingly and gently; and hence I may be pardoned for expressing a regret that certain provisions which, in their bearing seem to me trenchant and sudden beyond the as parts of this bill. Were it in my power to extept these provisions from the operation of my rote, I would do so; but, viewed as a whole, as a measure to accommodate a vast and intricate subject to the prevailing sentiment of the American people, to reduce the burdens artificially imposed upon the laboring and productive maand to reconcile diminished restriction of trade with increased contributions from it, I cannot resist the impression that the bill is more equal, more tempered, and more just, than the act of 1842, which it supersedes. That it deals with some pursuits and resources of my native Commonwealth less kindly than she might well expect, does not relieve me from my duty, but only maks its performance personally reluctant and 1 prize of

In aid of these considerations, adequate, per haps, in themselves to control my vote, there is another which, I am free to confess, nothing but an unforeseen, sheer and pressing public necessly could ever induce me to forego or forget. In strict concord with the letter and spirit of the Con-stitution, the Vice President of the United States, now called upon to act, is the direct agent and representative of the whole people. In advance, and dependent upon contingent results, it is perdecly competent to this, his national constituency, to give instructions, and to receive pledges for their execution. If by thus acting it be tortune to offend any portion of those who honored me with their suffrages, I have only to say to them, and to my whole country, that I prefer the deepest obscurity of private life, with an unwounded conscience, to the glare of official emi-nence, spotted by a sense of moral delinquency. The presiding officer, having given the casting vote in the affirmative, the bill was ordered to a third reading.

MR. SEDDON'S SPEECH.

We would invite particular attention to the speech of the Representative of this District, which we much regret we have been prevented, by the pressure upon our columns, from sooner laying before our readers. It is a speech every way worthy of the high reputation of its author. We have rarely, if ever, seen so complete a view of the great question it discusses presented within any thing like the same limits. It is both comprehensive and clear-large and general in its reasoning, yet pointed and practical in its application. It is a speech which we would ask Tariff men to read; for, while every line breathes a deep conviction of the injustice and oppression of the system, still the argument is conducted with a calmness and courtesy, a "come let us reason together" spirit, which ought to gain the ear, even of ultra opponents. We have been especially struck with Mr. S.'s exhibition of the operahers have acted a very conspicuous part, hers have acted a very conspicuous part, ally struck with Mr. S.'s exhibition of the operation of the restrictive system upon the Southhis demonstration that, to the South, to every class of her population, and every branch of her industry-commerce, agriculture and manufactures-aye, even Southern manufactures-it is evil, unmixed evil-unrelieved burden and blight We may take occasion hereafter to remark further upon this speech. For the present, we ask that it may be read.

The N. O. Commercial Times learns that the Court Martial on Capt. Thornton terminated on the 15th ult., and the general impression is, that be has been acquitted. The proceedings, however, will not be made public until they have been approved and confirmed by the President at Washington. One passage of his reported de-fence has been commented on with admiration by all in the camp at Majamoras. He said that in the performance of the act for which he was ried-rashness or precipitancy, we believe-he did not see the numbers of the enemy; all he saw was the Mexican flag waving over American soil, and he was willing to risk his own life in an attempt to cut it down.

The citizens of Petersburg have subscribed 300 dollars, in addition to the reward already offered for the arrest of Epes, the murderer of Muir.

A JUST TRIBUTE.

We are indebted to a military friend for the following interesting sketch of the brilliant manœuvre of Lieut. Blake, prior to the battle of Palo Alto. It is communicated in a letter to a distinguished officer, from one whose gallantry on the same field merits the highest praise. Our intelligent friend states that it will be difficult to find recorded a more daring and brilliant military feat. It was, moreover, all-important to the successful operations of the army, to obtain the specific and accurate information which was brought back by Lieutentant B. Can the mind conceive a more heroic act? Alone, within musket-shot of the Mexicans, he coolly rode along the enemy's line, stopping at times and taking a deliberate and thorough observation of their numbers, and even the size of their guns!

His fate was truly melancholy. When he lost one of the battle-field in defence of his country is honor and weifare—but he fell by his own try's honor and weifare—but he fell by his own hand, through a singular accident. We learn, that as he moved off rapidly to make his bold and successful reconnoissance of the Mexican army, he lost one of his pistols. On his return, he found as evidence in a suit now depending in the Circuit Superior Court of Law and Chancery for the Country when he lost one of his pistols. On his return, he found it on the road, and it was this same pistol which, and 4 o'clock P. M., of said days, proceed to take the depositions of Nathaniel D. As soon as Gen. Taylor received the and valuable Tract of Land called "AUBURN, desired information from Blake, he moved on the troops. The Mexicans finding the American army approaching too near, "opened" upon them,

Lieut, Blake dashed off from the right of our position, to within musket shot of the enemy's left; he then dismounted, and with his field glass counted the number of men in one of the squadrons, from which he accurately estimated his entire cavalry force; he then remounted, and galloped from left to right of the enemy's line, stopping from time to time, and carefully ob-serving the disposition of his infantry, as well as the position, number and size of his field guns; all of which important information was fully verified by the subsequent events of the day. His conduct, during the entire progress of the battle of Palo Alto, won for him the admiration of the whole army.

The news of the passage of the Tariff bill came upon our citizens quite unexpectedly this morning, being published in all the morning papers. It was received with joy by many, and by others with regret. But, on the whole, it has not produced so great a sensation as we expected. Stocks are about the same as they were day before vesterday, though a little down from the prices of yesterday forenoon, when it was understood the bill would be defeated. The fancies are from 1 to 14 lower; though higher than they were in the afternoon, when the passage of the bill was bruit-ed but not known. The fluctuation is less than is often caused by mere speculation, or idle rumor.

1 Prince Edward Court House, known as Springfield.

The Tract of Land contains 800 acres, a very fair proportion of which consists of excellent wood land and low grounds, a large quantity of improved high land, with good buildings, and all necessary improvements for a comfortable residence. It is situated within one mile of Prince Edward Court House, two miles from Hampden Sidney College, and seven miles from Farm-tille. These places farinish a constant and excellent market for all of its productions. There is no place in Virginia more entirely heatthy, and no society superior in intelligence and morality to that in its immediate vicinity. Its nearness to the Court House and College, affood superior facilities for education. There are two flourishing female schools, and one male school, at the Court House.

PAMUNKEY LAND IN MARKET.

THE subser ber, wishing to changehis place of location, either for the South or West, is induced by that and other considerations, to offer for sale, on reasonable terms, three Farms, located on the Camunkey River: First—The Oak Spring Farm, fying immediately on the river, offers perhaps as many inducements as any Farm of its size in the tide water section; it contains three hundred and fifty acres of land, two hundred and fifty of which is arable land, and now under a high state of cultivation and improvement, having recently been marled with the green said marl, and is now well set in clover. It has on it a Two story Wood House, with eight commodious rooms, closets, &c., pertaining to a convenient house; a Kitchen with four rooms; Dairy, ice House, Negro Cabins; Barns; and a fine Stable, Carriage and Cart House, as to be found anywhere. This Farm has sitached to it a fine Fishery, and the river banks abound in marl. The second Farm, called Hayfield, fies separated from the first by a narrow strip of land. This Farm cannings, by recent survey, six hundred and seventy acres of land, two hundred of which is in wood; remarkably well-timbered—that, together with the arable land, is under a fine cholosure, and good state of cultivation. Some of this land has been marled, and all of it well ditched. This Farm has an Orchard on it, containing some eight or nine different kinds of frant, all of a superior quality. It can boost of fine water also; there being numerous springs, and a well on the Farm. The Boildings consist of an Overseer's House, with two rooms; smoke thouse, Stable, Barn; Corn Houses, and Negro Cabins, all of a comfortable order. The third Farm, being some two sules distant from the two above mentioned Farms, offers considerable inducements, as regards health, fine water, &c. It contains these hundred and thirty acres of laad, att lying beautifully; some very productive meadow hand attached to i; and the greater portion of the high land has been maried, and is now in clover. T NOTICE.

By virtue of authority vested in me by the will of Saint George T. Coalter, deceased, I ofter for sale that valuable and well known Estate in New Kent County, cathed Cumberland, the former residence of the late Colonel D. R. Watkins Cumberland is situated on the Panninkey River, about two index from New Kent Court House, and contains about 17 or 1800 acres, of which four or 500 arcs cleared, the rest of the high lands is in woods, most of which is good cord wood, which sells well in that virinity, and at the landing. All the open land is of pretty good quarity, some or it very fine. There is also a good fishery attained to this Estate. There are all the buildings necessary for the confortable accommodation of a family, with the necessary Farm Bonses, but all wanting some repairs. This is the most healthy for any section, but bittle sickness ever occurring there; and I think is may be confidently said, that there are but few places which affords greater facilities for living; the river and creeks abteining nearly at all seasons with fish and with low! PARCHARDER AND STATES A Valuable Estate

IN THE COUNTY OF ORANGE IN MARKET.

I AM anxious to seil either a portion, or the whole of my land, upon the Hapid Anne River, in the county of Orange. This Estate is esteened by those who know at, equal, if not superior, to any in this region; is assessed value is as hich as any in the county. This tract is supposed to contain about 600 acres, and I am witting to sell either the whole, or 300 acres, without the buildings, if divided, a full proportion of timber could be allotted to each part. Adjoining this last 300 in acres, there are also 30 acres of very valuable timbered land, which can be had. The two united, would form in most desirable Farm. Owing to the excessive drought of the past Summer, my lands do not present their usual growth of grass; yet their fine adaptation to grass, and on one part of this a deposite from the river, suffcient toenrich at least 200 acres. Its qualities have been tested with a result altogether satisfactory. The dwelling on this Farm has been consumed by fire, but the wals are still good, and care be fully repaired at a cost of $50, the contract price offered by an excellent weekman. These walls are 31 feet by 40 feet, two story, with an excellent teilar. The cost of wood work must depend upon its execution. The tumber, however, is abundant on the land, and there are two Saw Mills, distantless than one mile. The contingity of these Saw Mills, two Grist Mulls, a large Flouring Mill and flourishing Woollen Factory, must add essentially to the convenience and value of this Estate. The location is such, that it cannot be made a pass way, and is peculiarly removed from annoyances of all kind. The river has been surveyed, and a company is now forming, with most flattering prospects of opening navigatoon from this Farm to Fredericksburg; and its distance of from Gordonsville Depot of Louisa Raitroad is only if miles. The buildings now standing are in excellent his several tracts of land, situated in the county of Caroline. They are known as SPRING GROVE, WESTWOOD & FARISH'S, and comprise in the whole about 2,500 acres.

SPRING GROVE, my homestead, situated on the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad, is within ten miles of Fredericksburg, and contains 1,200 acres. The ferthility of the soit is unsurpassed in this section of Virginia. It is peculiarly adapted to the growth of fine Tobacco, such as used by manufacturers for special purposes, or for foreign export. On it is a recitained marsh, perfectly secure from inundation, which yields an average of from eight to twelve harrels of corn per acre, varying according to the seasons. The buildings embrace a large Dwelling, Kitchen, fee, Carriage, and all other outhouses in good order. The Barn of modern structure, and commediously arranged, is located within 1 of a mile from the Railroad, on which is a turn out, built for the convenience of the Faria. Such me the factilities of transportation to Richmond or Fredericksburg, that from three to five hundred barrels of corn may be delivered in a day.

WESTWOOD, adjoining Spring Grove, contains 720 acres, spwards of 200 of which are reclaimed marsh. Few tracts present stronger indicements to capitalist than this. Known as unusually preductive, it has conveniently apportioned the cleared and woosiland, so as to present but comparatively sight difficulty to the proprietor in procuring fuel and fencing. The buildings for several years past have been unoccupied, but with slight repairs may be made comfortable. They are eighly situated on an emiscace, commanding a view of the surrounding country, which is exceedingly picturesque and attractive.

FARISH'S, contingous to Westwood, is a separate tract, of 400 acres. 100 of which its alluvial bottom lands—suited to Corn, Wheat and Tobacco. It has upon it an abundant and varied assortment of Timber for building and other purposes. The indigenous growth is Onk and flickory, indicating in this region a soil more peculiarly adapt Grove.
